

Welcome to the final CPC meeting of the school year! May and June are extremely jam-packed events here in the district. Proms, end-of-year celebrations, and of course final examinations and projects are happening or around the corner.

On behalf of the CPC, I want to thank the new administration members for a really phenomenal first year. Jill Gierasch, Mona Hecht, and Genevieve LaGattuta all began their current positions at a time when the rug was yanked out from everyone's feet: We all thought that the pandemic was a thing of the past until mid-July and then we learned that we had to continue school in a modified way. It was an incredibly stressful time to take the helm, when emotions were running high. Despite the obstacles, it has been wonderful to see our new administrators integrating seamlessly into the Cold Spring Harbor Community and devoting themselves to improved communication and programming in the district. They and the rest of the central district-wide staff will be the guests of honor at a luncheon we have organized on behalf of the district later today.

One bittersweet note about today is that this the last CPC meeting in which James Stucchio will be here in his role as deputy superintendent. We are appreciative of all he has done for the school community in the past several years. We know he must have been extremely gratified to see that the district budget was approved by majority vote earlier this month.

Another election outcome is that the district is welcoming two new Board of Education members, Bruce Sullivan and Alex Whelehan, who will start their three-year terms in July. I want to thank Amy Brogan, who is completing her most recent term as Board Member, for her many years of tireless dedication and service to the district.

Ordinarily, I'd take this time to say goodbye to my incredible fellow CPC board members — but as it turns out all four of us are returning in our current positions for the upcoming year! We are going to make a concerted effort to try to get more people to attend CPC next year. If you are interested in being a non-board representative from your school over the coming year, please let your PTG president know.
